FAMILIES FLEE ZONE IN PATH OF FLOODS

Leave Lowland Homes as Waters Of River Continue to Rise

By The Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 21. — Hundreds of families in Oklahoma and Texas moved to higher ground today as flood crests rolled toward their lowland homes.

With the highest water expected here tonight, officials sponsored the removal of 300 families from the bottoms of the North Canadian river as a precaution against an increase in the death roll, now standing at 13 in Texas, six in Oklahoma and one in Kansas.

The women in the families, most of whom are living in makeshift shacks, bagged up emergency supplies for their stay in a tent city, on higher ground.

Miss Jane Addams, famous founder of Chicago's "Hull House" settlement, was reported "sinking rapidly" today in Passavant hospital in Chicago, where she underwent a major operation Sunday. Three physicians in attendance reported Miss Addams was "slowly lapsing into a coma." They had little hope for her recovery.

LABOR MEASURE SENT TO HOUSE

Committee Clears Way for Early Vote on Wagner Disputes Bill

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The house labor committee today cleared the way for early house action by approving unanimously, with one amendment, the Wagner labor disputes bill that would set up a permanent tribunal to adjust controversies arising from labor elections.

The measure already has passed the senate by an overwhelming vote.

The one change would place the national labor relations board in the labor department. The bill as it came from the senate called for making the agency independent of any government department.

The measure would give labor a permanent legal right to bargain collectively with employers through representatives of their own choice.

It would outlaw company dominated unions and set up a series of unfair labor practices which employers would be compelled to observe.

House leaders plan to discuss the measure with the President before agreeing to give it a rule under which it may be brought to the house floor for a vote.

JAPAN PLANS ATTACK ON CHINESE BANDITS

Considers Move To Invade Demilitarized Zone

By The Associated Press.

TOKYO, May 21—The possibility of Japanese military action against alleged bandit activities in northern China was disclosed today in dispatches to the Rengo (Japanese news agency).

Japanese military leaders were reported meeting at Tientsin to consider what measures to adopt in face of the asserted operations of several thousand Chinese irregulars in the demilitarized zone south of the Great Wall.

These reports followed earlier advice that Japanese troops were moving on the Great Wall with the intention of entering northern China on an "anti-bandit expedition."

The absence of any further reports of military activities in the vicinity was interpreted as an indication that the movement of troops into China proper may have been delayed to enable Japan to make further protests against the alleged prevalence of banditry.

The war office asserted that there was no intention of occupying Chinese territory and that the troops would be withdrawn to Manchoukuo as soon as the "bandits had been punished and dispersed."

LEWIS APPEALS FOR STABILITY OF INDUSTRIES

Former Senator Calls Upon Kiwanis To Urge Higher Standard of Living

SOCIAL UNREST CITED

U. S. Never Attained Maximum of Ability to Consume, He Tells Dinner Guests

Former State Sen. Earl R. Lewis of St. Clairsville, Monday night called upon Kiwanis to take the initative in restoring "social and industrial stability" throughout the country, in an address before 200 members of the 10th division at an "All-Kiwanis night" program in the Mary A. Patterson memorial. He was introduced by Lieut. Gov. Cecil K. Scott of Salem.

Delegations attended from East Palestine, Leetonia, Salem, Lisbon, Columbiana, Wellsville, Toronto, Mingo and Steubenville. They were entertained by the high school band preceding a 7 p. m. dinner.

Rev. J. H. Lawther presented Russell C. Heddleston, past Ohio Kiwanis governor and former international trustee, who introduced many of the guests, including Lieut. Gov. Scott and Past Lieutenant Governors L. M. Kyes and Fred Owens, of East Palestine, Clerk Marshall of Leetonia; Ray Swearingen of Steubenville and Orrin Moore of Mingo.

Others present were: Probate Judge Homer W. Hammond, County Auditor John H. Irwin, County Prosecutor George L. Lafferty, Assistant Prosecutor George Springer, all of Lisbon; County Commissioner Conrad Berg of Leetonia; Mayor James H. McMasters and Solicitor Carl Weiman of Steubenville, and club presidents and other officers.

East Palestine Songfest Winner

East Palestine was awarded first prize in a song contest, in which all clubs participated, while Mingo won the attendance and longest distance trophies. The judges of the songfest were former Probate Judge Lodge Riddle of Lisbon, E. S. Kerr, superintendent of Salem schools, and Walter B. Hill, attorney, of East Liverpool. The attendance contest judges were past Lieut. Gov. Moore, Conrad Berg and former Mayor William A. Shasteen of East Palestine.

A one-act play by Mrs. Emil Liebschner jr., Mrs. Robert Boyce and Mrs. Robert Earl, directed by Mrs. Dale Thompson, and a three-man minstrel, composed of John Coleman, Arnold Densmore and Donald Stoffel, with Joseph Kinney as accompanist, featured the program.

Musical highlights were xylophone selections by Roger Bernard of Elyria, accompanied by Clair Chambers; solos sung by Wilbur Glenn and novelty tap dancing numbers given by the Lolypop Tap Dance quartet.

Lieut. Gov. Scott, who spoke briefly, discussed the increasing popularity of "All-Kiwanis night," which was started in Denver, Col., in 1924, and told of the International convention at San Antonio, Tex.

Lewis' Address

Former Senator Lewis said in part:

"Some people today tell us we are profoundly upset in our business and social life and that we are undergoing an industrial revolution, while others say that we have progressed so fast that for the first time in the last 10 years we have passed over the line from too little to too much.

"The effort to readjust and make more stable this unsettled condition must be made by organizations like Kiwanis. We must not admit defeat and say that we are unable to solve this problem. Surely the nation that has the genius to create such an abundance of everything must have the ability to provide some means whereby men and women may consume it and profit by it.

"The solution to this lies in a higher standard of living. The United States has never attained maximum ability to consume. It has been proposed that we turn back the clock and return to the days of old by creating a scarcity of products, but the conditions of yesterday can never be repeated tomorrow.

"There should be personal reward for personal effort, for that is the one thing that spurs men to action—it is the driving force of progress. Honesty, courage, hard work and a vision of the future are some of the lessons that we must apply. If we have a determination to succeed and turn our faces to the future, then we will go forward."

Johnson Joins in Controversy Over Extension of Blue Eagle

Sounds Appeal for Support of President in Battle To Prolong NRA Life for Two Years

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Plunging into the bitter congressional fight over continuing NRA, Hugh S. Johnson is seeking to muster support for President Roosevelt's two-year extension plan among little business men, wage earners and housewives.

The former recovery administrator appealed to them last night to tell their senators the blue eagle is not "a political hot poker." He suggested that they send petitions "giving facts."

Laying aside for the moment his differences with Donald R. Richberg, NRA's present chief, Johnson turned his vocabulary on the organization's critics in a radio address.

"The charge of monopoly comes from monopolists, that of oppression from oppressors, that of regimentation from industrial martinets," he said.

Object to Uncertainty

Siding with house Democrats, Richberg and the President against the senate-approved plan to extend the agency only nine and one-half months, the man who helped create NRA declared:

"The effect of the senate bill would plunge all business into blank uncertainty. It would be far better to kill NRA now. Yet to kill it outright might produce the worst business setback since 1932."

Johnson spoke as preparations were made for a rally of NRA supporters in the capital tomorrow. The meeting already was under fire in the senate, where Sen. Nye (R.) of North Dakota contended it was a "well-financed drive upon the part of NRA office-holders, code authority officials and code enforcement employes to impose their will upon the congress in the matter of the extension of NRA.

Turns Down Invitation

Turning down an invitation to attend the rally, Sen. Borah (R.) of Idaho asserted those coming for the gathering "are here for their own selfish interest" and are "asking for the power to inflate prices."

Ward Cheney, chairman of the committee arranging the conference, replied in a statement to the press that these attacks had so incensed taxpaying business men that increased pledges of attendance had resulted and a larger hall been engaged.

As to the activity of code authorities in connection with the rally, Cheney said "we are proud of the leaders who have been fairly and honestly elected to represent their groups on the 700 or more authorities organized under the NIRA and strict government supervision."

MRS. RACHEL HERBERT STRICKEN HERE AT 94

Widow of Col. Herbert Lived In City for 70 Years

Mr. Rachel L. Herbert, 94, widow of Col. Josiah T. Herbert, a Civil war veteran, died Monday at 8 p. m. in the home of her son, Sherman T. Herbert, at 757 Minerva street, after a three-week illness.

Born in Troy, O., the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Peter Banta, Mrs. Herbert had lived here for nearly 70 years. Her husband, who died about 60 years ago, was a pottery salesman after the war between the North and South.

She was a member of the Presbyterian church in which her father was ordained.

One son, Sherman T. Herbert, survives. Three other sons, Joseph T., George and Ward Herbert, are dead.

Funeral services will be held in the Sherman T. Herbert home Wednesday at 7:30 p. m., in charge of Rev. E. A. Walker, of the Emmanuel Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. J. H. Lawther of the First Presbyterian church. Interment, which will be private, will be made in Riverview cemetery.

Friends may call Wednesday afternoon.

TRAIN HITS LANDSLIDE AND FALLS INTO RIVER

Three Members of Crew Injured in West Virginia Wreck

By The Associated Press.

MONTGOMERY, W. Va., May 21.—A Chesapeake and Ohio freight train ran into a landslide on the tracks at South Fayette early today and plunged over an embankment into the New River, injuring three men, one critically.

Eleven cars were thrown from the tracks, two of them tumbling with the engine to the edge of the river.

COAL MINERS AWAIT FIRST LADY'S VISIT

Mrs. Roosevelt Will Inspect Shaft at Bellaire

By The Associated Press.

BELLAIRE, May 21.— Four hundred miners, stained with coal dust, became instructors today for Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Down in the Willow Grove mine at nearby Neffs, cutters and drillers, trackmen and loaders went about their difficult tasks and waited for their student.

Mrs. Roosevelt planned to visit the mine, suitably attired for the occasion, early this afternoon.

The first lady expressed a wish to see a coal mine in operation when she accepted an invitation to speak at the closing exercises of the "People's university" here.

The mine workers have been instructed to go right ahead with their work when Mrs. Roosevelt appears so that she may observe the actual working of the mine.

CHAIN LETTERS LOSE APPEAL FOR OHIOANS

Postal and City Authorities Open Drive To Kill Racket

Ohioans seemed to be licking the stamps on chain letters with a little less enthusiasm today, but they continued to pour hundreds of letters into the mails.

In Cincinnati and Columbus, officials took steps to end the activities of professional chain letter promoters. Cincinnati police were ordered to arrest promoters and prosecute them under an ordinance prohibiting lotteries.

Assistant U. S. District Attorney Ray J. O'Donnell at Columbus told postal officials to warn chain letter agents against further activities and said that if the promotions were "persisted in, prosecutions will ensue."

ICKES TO MAKE NO CHANGE IN PWA PAY RATE

Refuses To Enter Dispute on Relief Wage Scale Set By President

GREEN OPENS ATTACK

Fears Social Unrest Under Schedule Adopted for Works Program

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Declining to enter any controversy over reduction of payments to labor and other phases of the $4,000,000,000 work program, Secretary Ickes said today the PWA hourly wage rate would be maintained on PWA projects.

"Every man has a right to a personal opinion," was Ickes' only comment on attacks at the new wage schedule by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Sen. McCarran (D) of Nevada.

The wage scale for the $4,000,000,000 program, announced last night, ranges from $19 to $94 a month.

Ickes indicated there might by a change in hours worked on PWA projects.

"I think the PWA will certainly be maintained on permanent structures such as buildings and bridges," he said, "but hours will depend upon whether we have to work on double shifts."

May Change Hours

He added the existing 30-hour week of PWA projects might be continued, or "we might have to go to 40 hours (the basic number of hours in the schedule announced yesterday by President Roosevelt)."

Ickes indicated he would favor increasing the amounts donated by the federal government toward non-federal PWA projects, as demanded by the United States conference of mayors.

"I expect to prepare a recommendation, which will be general in character, and submit it to the President today," he said.

Asserting that he feared "great social unrest" would spring from low work relief wage rates, Green said he had called federal leaders to a session today to decide on a course of action.

"Inequitable" and "unsound" were some of the adjectives Green flung at the wages.

Fears Social Unrest

"I am very much afraid," Green said, "that great social unrest will result from these widely varying rates. There is certain to be discontent and I would not be surprised if it led even to widespread strikes among relief workers."

Earlier Sen. McCarran had directed hotly-worded criticism at the schedule. McCarran, leader of the defeated drive to force the payment of wages prevailing in private industry, asserted that President Roosevelt's executive order "would completely wreck the country's wage scale." He indicated that he was preparing to attack the wages on the floor of the senate.

Administration officials denied the new rates, which represent a slash as compared with PWA scales, would "wreck" the pay structure. Although issuing no immediate formal statement over their signatures, they contended the schedule is higher than it may seem at first glance because those affected will work for 12 consecutive months.

"The security wages," said President Green, "are based upon unsound premise. They should be determined by conditions prevailing in each locality."

In general, the plans call for a 40-hour five-day week and Mr. Roosevelt said the monthly earnings would be "in the nature of a salary," with pay continuing when work is halted by inclement weather. Workers, however, will be docked for absences, either voluntary or because of illness."

COMMITTEE TO VOTE ON PAROCHIAL BILL

Chairman Calls House Group Together for Action

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, May 21.—Chairman Julian Schweller called the house finance committee for a meeting this afternoon and notified each member by telegram that "no excuses will be accepted."

Having twice refused to report out the $5,000,000 parochial school-denominational college state aid bill, the committee is expected to vote the bill out late today if Schweller obtains the complete attendance he wants. The measure lacked only one vote of the number required the second time the committee considered the question of recommendation.

Approved by the senate, 17 to 15, the bill has taken the form of a pawn for the $48,000,000 Traxler-Keifer public school foundation program measure.

The public school bill has been passed by both the senate and the house but the latter body refused to concur in senate amendments.

Stand Shares Interest With Party Leader's Remark Revealing Hope

REJECTS HOUSE PLEA

Committee Unable to Change Views; Message Will be Read Tomorrow

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The word was passed in informed circles today that President Roosevelt had asserted that, after vetoing the inflationary Patman bonus bill, he also would reject any other proposal for full and immediate cash payment of the $2,200,000,000.

This disclosure shared interest with a remark by Sen. Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, holding out apparent hope to those who want to see some bonus legislation passed.

He said yesterday he would like to see some bonus legislation "worked out and passed" after the Patman bill had been killed and added that he would be glad to "contribute" toward that end.

"But I don't know whether it is possible or not," he said.

Plan Not Revealed

Whether Robinson, an administration leader, had in mind some compromise that would not call for payment in full immediately was not disclosed. But the White House was described in informed quarters as opposed to any plan for such full payment.

These informants gave this version of the visit the bonus "steering committee" of legislators paid yesterday to President Roosevelt in a vain attempt to get him to change his mind about vetoing the Patman bill tomorrow:

Mr. Roosevelt said he would be glad to receive, read and consider their statement urging him to sign the bill, but that he could not sign it. Then somebody asked, "Will you sign any bill for full cash payment of the bonus?"

The answer was said to be an emphatic "no."

After this session, congressional leaders pushed ahead with their plans for a joint session of the two houses at 12:30 p. m., tomorrow, at which Mr. Roosevelt will read his veto of the Patman bill.

Senate Delays Resolution

A resolution for the joint session sped through the house of representatives yesterday. In the senate, a similar move was halted temporarily by the objection of Sen. Steiwer (R) of Oregon but Democratic leaders foresaw no trouble in getting it through in time.

In objecting, Steiwer said:

"The constitution doesn't contemplate that the President should participate in legislative matters, I see no reason why the senate should be at the joint session. It is not involved unless the house overrides the veto."

Charles West, "liaison man" between the White House and congress, is making personal appeals to members, asking them to help the President make as good a showing as possible on the post-veto vote.

HITLER KEEPS SPEECH SECRET

Attaches Great Importance To Long Message for Reichstag Session

[Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press.]

BERLIN, May 21.—Reichsfuehrer Hitler today prepared the longest speech in his career as a statesman and informed circles said the oration, addressed to the reichstag, might include an invitation to Russia to conclude a non-aggression pact.

The speech, to begin at 8 p. m. (2 p. m. East Liverpool time), was expected to last two hours. It consists of 90 pages and runs between 25,000 and 30,000 words.

Secrecy Maintained

Official secrecy was absolute, but one of Hitler's closest collaborators, after reading the prepared document, observed:

"You will find at least three-quarters must be quoted verbatim because it is so full of meat. After a short historical introduction, the speech goes right into the heart of things."

It was widely supposed that, in addition to the invitation to Russia, der fuehrer would take up the general world situation as it relates to Germany.

Wilhelmstrasse officials would neither confirm nor deny the report.

It also was generally believed Hitler will anounce the creation of separate ministries for the army and navy. Heretofore they have been combined as one defense ministry.

To Go Into Armaments

As der fuehrer completed writing his address, it was reported his words were being translated into various languages for international broadcast.

The importance with which he regards his forthcoming utterance was indicated by the fact that loudspeakers for its amplification were erected in every city and hamlet in Germany.

Sources from which Hitler sought counsel, were regarded as indicating he would analyze the armaments of Germany's neighbors in the light of Nazi rearmament and demands for equality.

He also was expected to ask final approval for the conscription law he announced last March, to the consternation of the other powers of Europe.

TREADWELL FIRM LOW ON TYGART RIVER JOB

Midland Firm Submits $78,000 Bid On West Virginia Program

The Treadwell Construction Co. of Midland, Pa., has submitted a low bid of $78,000 to manufacture and deliver conduit lining for the Tygart river reservoir dam above Grafton, W. Va. The proposals were opened in the offices of United States engineers in Pittsburgh Monday.

Other figures listed were: Dravo Contracting Co., Pittsburgh, $89,700; Bartlett Hayward Co., New York City, $93,880; McClintic-Marshall Corp., Pittsburgh, $94,260; Alco Products Inc., New York City, $96,895; Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel Co., $130,850.

All bids were submitted on the basis of f. o. b., Park View station, W. Va. About 1,800 tons of structural steel will be required to fabricate the conduits.

BORDER AUTO SALES TAX LAW TEST SEEN

Columbiana Stands Pat in Face of Court Fights

Columbiana County Clerk of Courts T. Vaughn Yates at Lisbon stood pat today on the collection of sales tax on out-of-the-state purchases of automobiles, as suits were filed in Summit and Montgomery county courts to test the state tax commission's regulation.

"There has been no change in the ruling that sworn statements of ownership of automobiles purchased outside Ohio cannot be accepted unless the Buckeye state's 3 percent retail levy has been paid," aids in the clerk's office said.

Yates has collected a total of $77.04 in sales taxes on border state automobile purchases since May 13, his records today showed. So far 10 motorists, who acquired new or reconditioned cars in West Virginia or Pennsylvania, were required to pay the Ohio levy before licenses were issued to them. The levies ranged from 58 cents to $23.76.

In the event an Ohioan purchases an automobile in West Virginia, he must pay the Buckeye state levy, although previously West Virginia assessed a privilege tax under the 2 percent consumer's levy there for issuing a title. Pennsylvania does not have a sales levy.

Clerk Yates declared the state tax commission had instructed him to refuse sworn statements of ownership, when it was shown that the sales tax had not been paid.

NEW BONUS BILL SEEN IF PATMAN VETO IS UPHELD

Legion Will Sponsor 3-Way Proposal for Payment, T. W. McCaw Says

GUEST AT RALLY HERE

About 150 Veterans Attend County Council Meeting In Potters' Hall

Another bonus bill, giving the President the right to select one of three proposed plans for the payment of the veterans' adjusted compensation certificates, will be sponsored by the American Legion in the event President Roosevelt's promised veto of the Patman bill is upheld by the United States senate, Thomas W. McCaw of Dennison, past state commander and national committeemen, declared in an address at the Columbiana county council rally in the Potters' hall Monday night.

McCaw, addressing 150 veterans, expressed the opinion that the senate would uphold President Roosevelt's veto by a "narrow margin," but declared that the Legion would immediately present a substitute bill.

Three Plans of Payment

The new measure would require that the President order the payment of the bonus either by the issuance of $2,200,000 in bonds, print new money as provided by the Patman bill or cash the compensation certificates from the $4,880,000,000 works relief bill passed about six weeks ago.

"The Legion believes that this bill can be enacted either with or without the President's approval, as it could not be consistently opposed by inflationists or non-inflationists," McCaw said.

Other speakers included Donald Sheppe of Warren, chairman of the state Americanization committee, who lauded the Legion's school award program and discussed the junior baseball movement; Past Department Commander James Ingersoll, also of Warren; Tenth District Commander Clyde Stouch of Steubenville and John Garver, of Strassburg, commander of the third division in the Tenth district who brought with him a goat, which he must retain until his division climbs out of the cellar position in the membership campaign.

Legionnaires' Sons Guests

Reports on Boy Scouts, membership, Americanization, unemployment veteran relief, junior baseball, Sons of The American Legion and other activities were given. Officers of the East Liverpool and Salem squadrons of The Sons of the American Legion were guests. Two reels of U. S. navy moving pictures were shown by A. A. Wells. Lunch was served.

Legionnaires from Warren, Steubenville, Dennison, Salem, Lisbon, East Palestine, Wellsville, Leetonia and Columbiana attended.

RAILROADS FIGHT CANAL PROJECT

Prepare Protests for Hearing Before Committee This Week

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Eastern railroads prepared their arguments against construction of the $37,000,000 Beaver-Mahoning canal today as the senate commerce committee opened its hearings on the omnibus rivers and harbors bill.

A preliminary allotment of $5,000,000 for this project already has been recommended by the advisory board of the new public works program. Whether the hearing will have any effect on President Roosevelt's decision concerning the project is not apparent.

Consideration of the project may not be reached by the committee before Friday. The Upper Ohio River association has demanded that no action be taken on the advisory board's recommendation until the committee hearings are completed.

The project has attracted heavy opposition from Pittsburgh interests which have maintained that the canal would benefit only the Youngstown area.

The project is included in the omnibus rivers and harbors bill, a fact which has caused some opposition to its inclusion in the new works program. The canal would provide an outlet to the Ohio river.

Rep. Crosby (D.) of Pennsylvania has protested against the canal and other groups have sought to delay action until army engineers could complete a survey of the proposed French Creek canal which would provide an all-Pennsylvania route from the Ohio river to Lake Erie.

Senators Guffey of Pennsylvania and Donahey of Ohio, both Democrats, are on the commerce committee. Guffey said he planned to attend the hearings, but declined to discuss the canal controversy.

Donahey said he had turned over to the committee all protests he had received against the project.

GROUP SEEKS FUNDS FOR SCHOOL YARDS

Benefit Carnival Will Be Featured Friday at Pleasant Heights

Funds for completing a landscaping program will be sought by the Home and School association, which will present a carnival in the Pleasant Heights school building Friday at 7 p. m. President Harold L. Allison will be in charge.

The program will include a show, "The House of Nonsense;" fish pond, pet show, antiques, bingo and other amusements. Music will be provided by a brass band and orchestra.

Refreshments will be served.

The association has already raised a considerable amount of money toward the cost of school improvements, including yard grading and evergreen and other shrubbery planting.

CAPEHART CANDIDATE FOR CITY TREASURER

Present Councilman to Seek Republican Nomination

Councilman-at-large L. T. Capehart of 926 Chestnut street, roofing contractor, today filed his declaration of candidacy for the Republican nomination for city treasurer at the Aug. 13 primary balloting with the Columbiana county board of elections.

Mr. Capehart, who was elected to council in 1934, also served four previous terms as councilman-at-large during the administrations of former Mayors Dr. R. J. Marshall, V. A. Schreiber, Joseph Wilson and Charles Brown. He has lived here 37 years and has been in business for 25 years.

He is a member of the Masonic and Knights of Pythias lodges and Methodist Episcopal church. He is married and father of two sons, Louis, of East Liverpool, and Clarence, of Canton, and a daughter, Miss Helen Capehart, of East Liverpool.

E. PALESTINE WILL ASK FAIRGROUND JOB

Plans Ordered Prepared In Move for FERA Project

EAST PALESTINE, O., May 21.—Service-Safety Herbert Lemley was directed to prepare plans, specifications and estimate the cost of the proposed improvements to the former East Palestine fair grounds by city council Monday night as the first step in seeking FERA aid.

Solicitor E. L. Lyon reported he could find no record in the city statutes as to the creation of a park commission for the management of the former fair grounds. In the absence of such a body, the management and control of the property was placed in the hands of council. A petition carrying 1,200 signatures was recently filed, asking improvement of the athletic field at the grounds.

Solicitor Lyon ruled the transfer of money from the depreciation fund of the electric light plant to make repairs to the light plant was legal. He held that this fund could be used only for the electric light system.

A communication from the Interclub council asking a general clean-up campaign was referred to the service-safety director.

The street committee was directed to proceed with the widening of Walnut street by moving back the curb three feet on the east side of the street from Taggart street to Park avenue.

The parking ordinance was referred to the solicitor for changes following the report that an offender could not be prosecuted for violation of the measure in its present form.

The sale of $45,000 in refunding bonds to the Provident Savings and Trust Co. of Cincinnati by Auditor George Archibald was confirmed.

CHESTER ROAD ASKED

State Urged To Grade, Pave Route To Asbury Chapel

Chester good roads boosters will petition the West Virginia road commission to grade and pave the nine-mile section of road beginning in Fairview avenue at the Chester corporation line, leading past the Washington school and which taps State Route No. 2 at the Asbury chapel.

This action was taken at a meeting in the Arner undertaking establishment in Carolina avenue Monday night. J. C. Cunningham was elected president of the temporary organization and G. A. Arner was named secretary.

WEATHER OBEYS AAA

MARYSVILLE, Cal. — The elements did man's job in crop control in at least one California horticultural product. A heavy reduction in peach production was predicted following adverse weather conditions. The crop estimate was placed at 200,000 tons of No. 1 peaches and probably will alleviate the necessity of controlled marketing planned by growers this year.

SON OF CONFEDERATE GENERAL IN PRISON

Argument Over Weapon Leads To Death of Tenant

By The Associated Press.

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va., May 21.—Taciturn Samuel McCausland, son of the Confederate general who burned the city of Chambersburg, Pa., sat silently in a jail cell today, awaiting conference with his attorney before talking about a charge of slaying Howard West, 45, tenant on one of the McCausland farms.

The six-foot-three landholder, dressed in the riding boots and broad brimmed hat of a gentleman farmer, declined to answer any questions about the case, officers said.

"He was advised by his attorney not to talk," said Sheriff Gus A. Douglas of Mason county.

West was found badly wounded yesterday a short distance from his home near Carney. He died soon after in a Gallipolis, O., hospital and Prosecutor Stephen K. Vaught ordered filing of a charge of murder against McCausland.

Arresting officers said McCausland and West had quarreled about a gun carried by Gen. John McCausland while he led raiding forces during the Civil war. After his arrest, police quoted Samuel McCausland as expressing concern for the safety of the weapon, which he carried when apprehended.

Gen. John McCausland, the prisoner's father, was called from a teaching post at Virginia military academy to organize troops in West Virginia.

His most famous exploit was at Chambersburg, Pa., where under orders from Gen. Jeb Stuart he led a little band into the town and demanded funds. When money was refused McCausland and his raiders fired the town.

FERA AID ASKED IN STREET JOBS AT WELLSVILLE

Park and Fire Station Work Are Also Proposed by Director Imbrie

$31,988.51 SOUGHT

Riverside Avenue-Commerce Street Improvement is Part of Program

Wellsville today outlined plans for civic improvements in the expectation that favorable action will be taken by the state relief administration upon a program which includes streets, a park and fire station.

The improvement of Riverside avenue, estimated to cost $13,933.36, which was blocked by a court injunction fight a few years ago, tops the list announced by Service-Safety Director George B. Imbrie who has asked $31,988.51 from the works relief fund.

It is proposed to erect a shelter house in Hammond park in the Wellsville - Salineville highway, while repairing and painting of the Central fire station is also planned. The two projects will cost about $411.84 and $2,385.86 respectively.

The amounts sought for street improvements include: Chester avenue, $5,805.99; Maple avenue, $5,277.59, and Riverside avenue and Commerce street, $4,173.90.

The program is expected to provide work for Wellsville's jobless during most of the summer.

PARENT CLUB FORMED TO AID NEWELL BAND

Donald Sutton Elected President of Group To Encourage Pupils

A Band Parents' club was organized to assist the 50-piece Newell school band, at a meeting of the Newell Parent-Teachers' association in the Wells High school Monday night. The band, directed by G. K. Blakeslee, music supervisor in the Hancock county school, made its first public appearance at the session.

Donald Sutton was elected president of the club. Other officers and committees named were: Vice-president, Sheridan White; secretary, John Geer; treasurer, Harry Lytton; reporter, Miss Esther Logston; by-laws committee, Mrs. Harry Lytton, Claude Mills and N. J. Mosser; summer activities committee, Clarence Deeds, Fred Smith, Harvey Pickens, Mrs. Earl Cox and Mrs. C. L. Coffman.

The club will meet bi-weekly in the Wells high school. The next session is scheduled for June 3.

"ALL-BRAN FORMS MAJOR PORTION OF MY BREAKFAST"

Delicious Cereal Relieved His Constipation*

Read Mr. Huyghe's voluntary letter: "After suffering for years, I happened to notice in the grocery a box of ALL-BRAN. I determined to give it a fair trial.

"Today it forms the major portion of my breakfast. I cannot say enough for its effect, as I am a man 58 years of age, at the time in life when one needs just what ALL-BRAN does for you."—Mr. Robt. A. Huyghe, 810 Union St., New Orleans, La.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

Research shows that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. With each meal, in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN resists digestion better than the "bulk" in leafy vegetables. How much better to use this gentle food in place of patent medicines.

At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

CHARGES MADE AGAINST ITALY

League Delays Action After Ethiopian Ruler Sends Strong Telegram

By The Associated Press.

GENEVA, May 21.—Confronted by a telegram from the emperor of Ethiopia, accusing Italy of "aggression and rapacity against our people," representatives of the powers and the League of Nations council moved cautiously today in their efforts to bring the East African controversy to a peaceful settlement.

While delegates perused the strongly worded communication, they awaited the arrival of Pierre Laval, French foreign minister, before taking any step.

Propaganda Charged

"Italy initiated a campaign of propaganda in an endeavor to justify her occupation of Ethiopian territory as a mission of civilization and her aggression and rapacity against our people as the treatment due a barbarous nation," Emperor Haile Selassie told the League council.

"No agreement has been or will be possible by diplomatic means to arrange for a genuine and impartial examination of Italy's present state of mind."

Haile Selassie asserted an impartial examination of the dispute would be rendered "difficult, if not impossible," by Italy's selection of two government officials as conciliators.

Demands Inquiry

He added the request that unless Italy forgoes her reluctance to have all matters in controversy submitted to the arbitral commission, the League itself make a full investigation under Article XV of the covenant.

The emperor said Italy had employed threats to force his country to pay reparations and apologize for offenses he had not committed.

(In Rome, government circles said Ethiopia's latest protest to Geneva would do nothing more than aggravate an already delicate situation. The objection to Italy's choice of conciliators was termed a "special argument," intended to becloud Ethiopia's difficulty in finding trained diplomats as her representatives.)

Grafton conferred with Paul and H. C. Leonard, of Lisbon, secretary of the old complaint and adjustment committee, who will serve in the same capacity with the new organization, in the Potters' hall here Monday afternoon.

CHESTER TO LAY LEVY FOR STREET LIGHTING

Chester's street lighting problem, which threatened to plunge the city into darkness, appeared near a solution today, after a conference between municipal officials and State Tax Commissioner Fred L. Fox at Charleston.

At Monday night's meeting of the council, a report was made that Fox had given the city permission to lay a special levy to pay a $1,700 bill for street lighting, incurred prior to April 17, when a five-year contract with the Monongahela-West Penn Public Service Co. expired.

This additional levy will extend over a period of three years. It will be assessed Aug. 1, when the tax rates for the year are fixed.

For light bills incurred since April 17, Fox explained, the city must work out some other arrangement. Councilmen explained today that it was hoped to adopt a definite plan before the next meeting. In the meantime, the utility company will continue to provide street lights.

An Improved Recovery Act

The administration's demand for a two-year continuation of the recovery act implies a state of satisfaction with the act. That is not easy to believe, in view of the administration's own experience in enforcement of the measure.

There has been a rapid and important chance in popular opinion of the recovery act. Thus, when President Roosevelt first asked for its continuation, there was little opposition. The little there was, however, grew to large proportions as it became increasingly evident the act was not capable of enforcement.

It will be recalled that the original conception of regulating industry by codification was confined to certain key industries, such as steel, mining, lumber and automobiles. It was expansion of that conception and the introduction of a boycott policy which caused the blue eagle to perch in virtually every place of business in the country.

The impossible problem of enforcement thus posed for the recovery administration forecast the eventual loss of tolerance for a regimentative policy which now jeopardizes the entire principle of codification. Reenactment of a law which is not working, simply because reenactment is demanded by an administration, would be folly.

Yet, there is no considerable demand for complete abandonment of the fundamental principles of the recovery act. In the absence of such a demand, certain congressmen have proposed a compromise. It calls for continuation of the recovery act in a curtailed form for a period of nine months, or until it will be possible for congress to make a thorough revision of the original act in accordance with the surpeme court's rulings on the constitutionality of its present form. That would allow for improvement of the recovery act in a reasonable length of time. It would not destroy the original basis of the legislation, nor would it continue it in a form which the supreme court might make automatically unconstitutional by its forthcoming ruling on the existing act.

Deeper Than Democracy

Citizens who participate in mass demonstration to influence legislators are not aware of any danger to democracy in the practice. Rather, they feel that their ability to demonstrate against government is a privilege of democracy and that passage of the legislation they are demanding is essential to continuance of their confidence in government.

Mass demonstration, therefore, is deeper than democracy, which is only a form of government designed to make physical intimidation of the agents of government unnecessary. It seems to follow from this understanding that mass demonstrations, whenever they occur with noticeable frequency, are a symptom of wavering faith, not only in democracy, but in government itself.

A population which is contented does not respond to appeals for demonstrations against the government, not even such peaceful demonstrations as those in which Americans are participating. It is significant surely that the United States has witnessed only one overtly hostile demonstration in Washington, that of June 21, 1783, when the continental congress was surrounded by several hundred soldiers with fixed bayonets. On that occasion, legislators were actually in terror. The invasion of the first bonus expeditionary force in 1932 was not comparable, even though force was used, because in that case was an indiscreet means, not of the governed but of the government.

Those who are disturbed by mass demonstrations believing they are inimical to the continuance of orderly and equitable government, sometimes fall into the error of wanting to forbid the symptom, hoping thereby to eradicate the condition of which the symptom is a warning. This confusion of course and result is deceptive. Pressure government, unless it can be checked inevitably will destroy representative democracy. It cannot be checked, however, by any means other than correction of the state of mind which makes it seem to a great portion of the people a necessary method.

Names Make News

Gen. Hugh Johnson put over the NRA with one of the flashiest exhibits of personality ever staged in the national capital. Some say he did his work not wisely but too well, but he did what he was capable of doing and, apparently, what he was expected to do.

Gen. Johnson's successor as personal promoter of the blue eagle was Donald Richberg, who lacked most of the qualities which made Gen. Johnson, next to President Roosevelt, the most conspicuous figure of the new deal during its first year of practical application.

Mr. Richberg possessed other qualities, however, which compensated for his failure to become famous as a phrase maker and executive whirlwind. He has, for instance, a record of friendship toward organized labor. He had been a labor lawyer at one time.

Labor turned against Mr. Richberg, however, as vindictively as it previously had turned against Gen. Johnson. He had difficulty, also, with congress, with employers, with his associates. That was not because he was personally quarrelsome or incompetent, but because he was in a position surrounded by difficulty.

Lately, it has been Mr. Richberg's task to try to persuade congress to continue the recovery act after June 16. He has worked hard at it, whether successfully or not he will not know for a while. Probably the edge of his personal interest in the outcome has been dulled by the fact he will return to private life June 16, the day on which the blue eagle will get a new lease on life or be encouraged in its own seeming inclination to die a natural and quick death.

What name will make news with NRA when Mr. Richberg is through with it? Probably none. That phase of recovery has ended. Not even Gen. Johnson could restore it now. Mr. Richberg, who was custodian of NRA during its decline, doubtlessly knows better than anyone else the obscurity which awaits his successor, if one is necessary.

The Wrong Slogan

"Share our wealth!" shouts Sen. Long, but most of his listeners are positive he means, "Share your wealth." As a matter of fact, they both have the wrong word and the wrong phrase. They really mean, "Equalize incomes."

Wealth and income are not the same. In 1929, for instance, a year for which estimates are available, the national wealth was $360,000,000,000, measured in dollars of current value. Divided among the whole population, that would have meant $2,900 for each person. But that was wealth—property, securities and a relatively small amount of gold employed as a basis for computing dollar values.

It would not have meant $2,900 in terms of income, which is what Sen. Long's radio fans are thinking about when he talks about sharing the wealth. On the contrary, the national income for 1929, divided equally among 120,000,000 persons, would have represented only $775 apiece. Divided among gainful workers, it would have meant $1,700 dollars apiece.

That would not be enough to appeal to even a wealth divider. Probably $2,500 a year is the minimum amount which would be attractive, though Sen. Long uses $5,000 in his appeals. The problem, therefore, is to see that some reasonable minimum is approached. That, of course, is a problem which has nothing to do with wealth sharing or income sharing, but with a state of national prosperity which will produce wealth enough to go around. Its solution is the objective of all the government's efforts.

Calculated by families, one fourth of the country's income units in 1929 received less than $1,000 and nearly half received less than $1,500. Almost two thirds of the income recipients at the bottom of the scale, with incomes of under $2,000, received in the aggregate about 28 percent of the national income, while the same percentage of income went to one-fiftieth of the income recipients at the top of the scale, who received $10,000 or more. Income equalization has no place in the hands of a Huey Long; it is too important. By muddling the problem with untruths and impossibilities, he and his kind are delaying what they claim to be demanding.

With Sweden's budget balanced, and her workers 99 per cent employed, Uncle Sam might not object to being called a big Swede—Louisville Times.

Discovery

Herbert Hoover, never noted for a sense of humor, yet must be able to enjoy the political role he has chosen.

Whether his fair weather friends in the Republican party like it or not, he still is their leader. That's worth a chuckle.

When Mr. Hoover has something to say and says it, he gets attention—and he's getting more attention all the time. There's a chuckle in that.

Furthermore, the fact that Mr. Hoover still is leader of the Republican party and still takes his responsibility seriously naturally makes his fellow members, whether they like him or not, curious about his personal selection for the party's candidate in 1936. That should be worth a laugh in the Hoover household out in Palo Alto.

Some Republicans have made a discovery in the last six months. A former president, they know now, can't be stopped from enjoying the prestige of the office. A political party which gets tied up with a leader makes his views its views. There are some Democrats who don't want to forget Alfred E. Smith and some Republicans who can't forget Herbert Hoover. The party makes the man, but once he is made it can't disclaim responsibility.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, May 21.—No success of the season has been more cheering to theatrical folk than that of Grace George. She came out of retirement recently to fulfill a star role that brought a first night audience to its feet cheering. And re-established her as a portrayer of elderly roles.

She wrung hearts as a pathetic and tortured spinster. Miss George is especially beloved by her profession because she is among the few who proved her calling is no barrier to a happy marriage. At 19, she was married to the bluff, fiery and capable W. A. Brady.

Convent bred and astonishingly shy, she is the exact opposite of her husband. Brady is the rough and tumble type, the man's man who takes his straight, is a terror at draw and knows how to manage prize fighters as well as build theaters and produce plays. He is now 72.

Miss George's life has been a succession of contrasting interludes—living in a theatrical trunk and making a cozy home for her husband in New York. And in spare time devoting the hours she could to stage charities. No star's life has been a better example to her guild.

Edward Dean Sullivan, the author, has spent a year collecting data for a book about the fabulous Wilson Mizner. He found that the chief tenet of Mizner's credo was that fear sinks and torments more people than almost any other thing. The play-wright gambler once related how he conquered this deadening influence in so many lives. When 16, he ran away from home and a month later wired his mother to send him $500. She wired back: "Sorry, I did not receive your telegram." Mizner was naturally disappointed, but right there economic fears left him forever. "I knew that the son of a mother that smart," he said, "was never going to starve."

I know a now successful doctor whose early after-college years were spent practising in a small town. In competition with the old established physicians he hung out his shingle and waited. Not much happened. So he conceived this subtlety. At busy times of the day and early evening he would hitch his horse to the buggy and drive in haste through the main streets as though answering a call. He would turn off into an old lane near a cemetery outside town and wait a plausible period and jog back. Impression got around the young doctor was in demand and clients began to arrive.

A number of the younger generation belonging to the Long Island set will rough it in lodge keeper's huts at the entrances of their parents' estate this summer. Things being what they are, many vast chateaux with idyllic names will be closed—the elder folk remaining in town. But the youngsters will have their curtailed and servantless establishments. They look upon it as a great lark.

The rich play boy—he's really gray and stooped — Tommy Manville and his show girl bride seem forever just one jump ahead of the kidnapers, if the headlines are accurate. Time after time—50 is a low estimate — the tabloids have exploited the mysterious phone calls, the escapes by an eye lash, the body guards that surround them and the pistol holster slung under his arm. For a time there was a lull in the hellish conspiracies, but recently they broke out again with a rash of pictures of Manville and the lady at night club tables as America's No. 1 Kidnapees. It must be terrorizing, but they seem to bear up valiantly—always laughing, joking, dancing the rhumba and carrying on with a tra-la-la.

Also John Barrymore shucked off much of the Royal Family dignity for a fling in New York after so many cloistered years in the sylvestral canyons of Hollywood. He allowed news photographers to snap his Byronic profile vis-a-vas with this charmer and that in the night club alcoves and seemed to enjoy the bright lights with boyish fervor. There was a time when he appeared in no public dining room save the Algonquin.

It's always interesting to watch restaurant crowds when someone like Barrymore makes a grand entrance. The head-waiter and captains telegraph it unconsciously. Sometimes a white-capped chef peers through the peep hole from the kitchen. The buzz of table conversation hangs suddenly in mid-air. And, boy, do the Barrymores of the world love it!

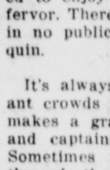
UNIONTOWN AND ASHLAND.

The vicinity of Ashland was wild and unsettled prior to the war of 1812. There was not a white man living in any of the surrounding townships in the year 1811. In the next year Dan Carter, an immigrant, took his family to a place a mile and half from the site of what now is Ashland but which was first called Uniontown.

In 1815 William Montgomery platted 41 lots and laid out the town of Unionville. Two years later it had but one store, a wagon shop, a tannery and a hat-making shop. The houses were cabins and the streets were full of stumps. Two years later a church was organized but the congregation met in the cabins of members for two years. In 1821, 14 new families moved in and Uniontown now added a distillery, a saw mill and other small industries. In 1844 the town was incorporated under the name of Ashland.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 21.—On Wednesday is the big day of the bonus. I am not following the usual custom and saying, "Wire your senator. Any senator that hasn't got his mind already made up by now, he would have to be one that couldn't read anyhow.



Besides I doubt if this new method of "government by telegraph" which we are developing is quite as effective as it's advertised to be.

There is a good deal of difference between a vote and a telegram. In our system of voting they generally stop you after about once, or maybe twice, but any one person can send as many telegrams as they have money and can think up names to sign to 'em.

Yours,

Will

Behind the News

IN WASHINGTON AND WALL STREET

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 21. — The nonchalance with which the new deal came out left-handedly in favor of buying the federal reserve system lock, stock and faults, was somewhat mystifying.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau interjected his indorsement as a sort of "by the way" afterthought, while testifying about the new bank bill. President Roosevelt murmured a quiet approval while reaching for a cigaret at a press conference.

Now, everyone knows that a government does not ordinarily indorse any such seemingly revolutionary suggestions in such a casual way. But the new dealers have performed many unprecedented feats before and have performed them casually. Consequently there appeared to be more behind this move than the off-hand treatment of it would indicate, and there is.

* * *

Bagatelle

The underlying explanation why Messrs. Roosevelt and Morgenthau did not go any stronger on it appears to be that they did not think it was important. Apparently they neglected to stress that because there are other people who think it is, notably Father Coughlin.

It is a little known fact, that the government could buy up the capital stock of the 12 federal reserve banks for $146,000,000. This is small change to a government spending four billions for relief alone. The stock is now held entirely by member banks (those private bankers whom Coughlin always talks about). It is little to them financially because it represents only 3 percent of their own total capital stocks. It pays dividends, but it figures very small in the banking structure of the nation.

* * *

Illusions

The financial experts of the government have never thought much about buying this stock for the simple reason that they run the 12 banks anyway. They did not figure that they needed to buy something they already operated through the federal reserve board.

Apparently the system was set up that way to maintain the illusion that the banking system was democratic. It was a proper constitutional subterfuge to let the bank stock be privately owned and then have the government regulate the banks energetically.

This regulation has always been more or less strong. The strength was increased by emergency banking acts since the new deal came in. And under this new bank bill, the board will be able even to tell all the federal reserve bankers what color shirt to wear and how to comb their hair.

* * *

Strategy

You can see from this that the strategy of new deal reformers has been to expand their power over the federal reserve. It will be complete if they get this new bank bill. That is what they are primarily interested in. But if anyone serjously wants them to own it as well as operate it, they are willing.

All it means to them is an ultimate acknowledgement and fulfillment of the legal ruse by which they seized it. It means the last trivial constitutional delusion of private ownership is lost.

If the trial kite which now has been casually attached to Father Coughlin's balloon floats well on the public breeze, you may expect that step to be taken. Apparently they do not intend to do anything important about it now. But good prophets are betting that, within two years the step will be taken.

* * *

Mantillas

If the thing is no more important financially than this, you may wonder why Messrs. Roosevelt and Morgenthau mentioned it at all. You underestimate Father Coughlin. It is one of his pet policies. Even a left-handed indorsement of it may tend to assuage his followers, which is a politically desirable resuk from a new deal standpoint.

Furthermore, it is an ideal mantilla for the administration to wave in the faces of the bull-like bankers who are raging against the extension of governmental power contained in the new bank bill.

* * *

Precedents

Four democracies have central banking systems owned by the government. They are Sweden, Finland, New Zealand and Australia. (Of course, Russia, Italy and Germany have dictatorships). In France and England, a fiction of independence is kept, similar to ours, but actually it does not amount to much.

* * *

Snag

The holding which is being done on the holding companies bill inside the Rayburn sub-committee has been causing some concern inside the new deal. The sub-committee is supposed to have been divided three to three for several weeks, with one Democrat siding with the Republicans against the bill.

The Corcoran-Cohen board of strategy has been working on the situation without effect. That is why the bill was rushed out of the senate committee with a topheavy vote. The new deal boys thought it would have a good psychological effect on the house committee.

However, the house snag appears to be only a detail. The bill will eventually be passed by both houses in much the same shape as proposed by the senate committee.

* * *

Republicans

Foremost Republicans say privately that the reason their midwestern meeting was centered in Illinois was to get away from candidacies. Apparently a number of party leaders felt that the proposed big meeting in Kansas would promote the prospects of a well-known Kansas favorite son. The official explanation, of course, is that they wanted to get into Lincolnian surroundings.

By JAMES McMULLIN

NEW YORK, May 21 — New Yorkers heaved a deep sigh of relief at settlement of the Toledo Chevrolet strike. The auto people could talk all they pleased about not being hurt by the walkout, but there were factors in the situation that had industrial and financial leaders badly worried. If the radical element had succeeded in blocking the peace terms approved by the federation of labor the fat would have been in a very hot fire. Insiders get word that leftist groups in many other unions were only awaiting victory at Toledo to get militant in a big way.

But the war isn't over yet. Private reports indicate that the right and left wings of the Toledo union are much more bitter towards each other than they are towards General Motors. Francis Dillon of the federation carried the day with a threat of excommunication for disobedience. This strong arm stuff may not work next time. The radicals are determined either to overthrow Bill Green's leadership or to force wholesale secessions of chartered unions. In the latter case the seceders would logically tie up with Communist labor groups.

Insiders rate the Wagner bill the last hope for Green and Co. to recapture their waning prestige. If they can't regain full control of their legions, look out for the worst storms yet!

* * *

Slowed

New York sharps have discovered a couple of intriguing angles to the work relief plan which have been generally overlooked.

Few people have noted that Harry Hopkins is directed to promote "small useful projects" which will assure maximum employment in all sections of the country. This implies that the old civil works administration idea is due for large-scale revival under another name. Presumably Mr. Hopkins will profit by experience and organize the layout more efficiently this time. Even new deal critics concede that CWA created more jobs in a shorter space of time than anything else Washington has tried.

A second featur that hasn't been stressed is the part the treasury will play. Mr. Morgenthau's department is to set up an accounting and disbursing system to assure centralized control of expenditures. Observers prophesy this system will minimize the waste of money which new deal opponents expect to pounce on. By the same token, however, the watchdog stuff is likely to slow up the rate of spending. Insiders take this as an added reason to doubt that the program will get into full stride before next winter.

Over

Real estate men see a better prospect of help from the banking bill than from all the other measures the government has tried for lifting their stricken business out of the swamp. The mortgage mess is still just that because the banks have consistently failed to enthuse about the various plans to make property loans more attractive. The burned child complex is very strong.

But the banking bill goes right to the root of the trouble. By liberalizing the terms on which banks can deal in mortgages and removing the fear that such investments will freeze on their hands the pressure is lifted which has led the banks to dump the mortgages they own at every opportunity. This alone should ease things a lot. Moreover as soon as it sinks in on the banks that mortgages are safe to handle there will probably be a rush to buy them. The urge to invest idle funds in assets that earn is getting more potent all the time, and mortgages offer a better yield than most anything else available.

Experts figure that increasing demand will gradually cut down mortgage interest to about a 4 percent level. When that point is reached real estate woes will be just about over.

* * *

Surplus

Companies mining non-ferrous metals are popular with traders but experts see shoal water ahead for them unless the craving to dig up gold and silver dies down. Silver prospects especially make all copper, lead and zinc properties look like potential bonanzas to their stockholders.

The trouble is that the silver and gold by-product in American mines is comparatively small. There are signs that the silver rush is resulting in overproduction of the more plebeian ores which have to be extracted at the same time.

It's estimated that there's enough zinc above ground for three months, enough lead for six months and enough copper for nine months at the current rate of consumption. If accumulation continues as at present only a marked stimulus of industrial demand can prevent a damaging surplus of these products that can't be sold. You can't plow metals under.

* * *

New

The recent wave of corporate financing has so far been confined to the refunding of outstanding obligations. But investment circles figure that the tangible evidence of cheap and easy money should encourage companies to start raising new capital pretty soon. It's no more expensive or difficult to register a new issue than an offering for refunding purposes. Developments on this line would please both Washington and New York.

* * *

Sidelights

If silver goes over a dollar it will be more valuable as bullion than as coin in India. That would mean a huge headache for Britain . . . Labor unrest is now mentioned as the chief obstacle to recovery momentum.

Mr. Joe Louis, His Samurai

A 21-YEAR-OLD DETROIT NEGRO, Joe Louis, tall, with some "white" blood, will fight the Italian giant Carnera. Sports writers say he "hits straight and hard, and takes punishment better than men of his race usually do, at that age. With him, as he travels, nodding gravely to applause, go six or seven other young Negro athletes, a "two fisted" group of admiring young satellites, each with his diamond ring, gold watch chain, diamond cravate pin.

They recall to Mr. Dan Parker, sports super-expert, the ancient "two sword men," the Samurai of ancient Japan.

This coming individual prize fight between a Negro and the giant Italian is doubly interesting just now because of the wholesale fight which threatens the kingdom of Italy and the blacks of Abyssinia. Mr. Joe Louis Samurai tells you that he (meaning Joe Louis) would make a better king of Abyssinia than anybody they can raise down there. Nevertheless, they are in favor of Abyssinia. Complications may arise when the fight draws a crowd made up largely of colored men and Italians.

A Woodpecker Sermon

"SERMONS IN STONES, and good in everything."

There must be a sermon in the Chicago wood pecker that every morning woke his neighborhood drumming on a copper drain pipe.

The copper resisted but the woodpecker drummed on until a boy with an air rifle stopped him forever. What is the sermon?

Does it deal with modern efforts to ignore the nature of men, stand old "supply and demand" on his head, and prove that super-intelligence can make the world over in 10 minutes?

Hitler's Latest

NEWS COMING from Germany again annoys respectable Britons. Hitler is alleged to have built 450 "vest pocket" torpedo boats to match the small, efficient swift cruisers with which he circumvented Versailles treaty limitations before he threw Versailles into the discard. These "vest pocket" torpedo boats carrying each four deadly torpedoes, traveling 60 knots an hour could disturb British floating commerce and even her warships considerably. Experts say their speed would make them hard to hit. With airplanes going 300 miles an hour, dropping torpedoes 10,000 feet up, would they be so easy to hit?

Invitation To Shoot

IN NEW YORK CITY, racketeers collect 10 million dollars a year from poultry dealers, having by way of persuasion killed a few of them.

To discourage the racketeering, Police Commissioner Valentine tells merchants to "slug racketeers" at sight and offers to help them get revolvers for shooting.

An old poker player when he "raised" used to say "the best way to discourage vice is to make it expensive."

Commissioner Valentine says the best way to discourage crime is to make it dangerous—for the criminal.

Russia To Pay France

BERLIN PREDICTS that Russia, having arranged an alliance for mutual defense with France, will now, recognize, and ultimately pay the money that France lent to the czars, about 5,000 million dollars. Guileless American bankers that lent money to Kerensky, the comic opera revolutionary must not let their hopes rise. Paying anything to the United States is not fashionable in Europe.

Congress may permit itself to be "pushed around" and "vetoed" forgetting that it was sent to Washington to think for itself. But there is no pushing around when the question is shall we cease hiring our own relations as clerks?

When that question came up, congress yelled "NO."

No one knows how long clerkship nepotism and "mileage" will last. We may have a real dictator some day, with an opinion of legislatures as long as that of Mussolini or the late Pilsudski, of Poland. Enjoy nepotism while the sun shines.

Tell your little boy that ordinary "nepotism" come from a latin word which means "nephew."

In congress it means any relative that needs a job.

Take Your Temper In Hand Before You Temper Takes You.

You are prone to attribute your outbursts of temper to your nerves.

If you are in such a nervous state that you do foolish and serious things, you should realize that you must take better hold of yourself.

You must conquer your nervous impulses before it is too late.

Very likely you don't want to expend your self-control.

But frequent disturbances due to anger are harmful to the system.

Their physical effects are felt in nervous indigestion and in the thousand and one things that undermine health.

This is especially true in middle life and later.

It is not often that the quick-tempered person permits himself to go beyond bounds when he knows by so doing he is likely to sustain physical injury and pain.

If a quick-tempered person can control himself one, he can do so again.

DREDGE PELICAN RUSHES WORK AT RIVER-RAIL DOCK

Pittsburgh Coal Co. Awards Creek Job Near Here for Montour Railroad

2,000-FOOT HARBOR

Large Tow of Gasoline on Way To Nashville, Tenn.; Coal Passes Dam No. 8

The General Contracting Corp., of Pittsburgh today rushed dredging operations at the Pittsburgh Coal Co.'s Montour river-rail dock in the mouth of Beaver creek at the Ohio-Pennsylvania border, near Smith's Ferry, Pa. The dredge Pelican is removing material for the channel and harbor, which will have a length of 2,000 feet.

The contract was awarded by the coal company after the United States Supreme court refused to review a state supreme court ruling dissolving a Beaver county, Pa., court injunction, which halted the dredging operations several months ago.

The Campbell Transportation of Pittsburgh, which is operating a line of steamers between the Steel City and Memphis, Tenn., has extended its operations to Nashville on the Cumberland river.

The steamer Fairplay passed here Monday with five barges containing 1,500,000 gallons of gasaline, one of the largest tows of petroleum products in recent months, for Nashville. Other boats locked through at dam No. 8 included the Carbon, down with nine barges of coal; the J. H. Hillman, down with four barges of coal, for delivery to plants in the Steubenville and Weirton, W. Va., districts, and the Diesel, up light.

The steamer Washington, which has been plying the lower Ohio river, will arrive here next Sunday when it will take out the initial excursion of the season to Rochester, Pa.

With The Sick

Mrs. Joseph Nesbitt of Hammondsville is undergoing treatments in the East Liverpool City hospital.

Catherine Louise Baker of Hammondsville is ill with an attack of the whooping cough.

Mrs. John Bettis of Salineville, is confined to her home by illness.

STRATOSPHERE TRIP INSTRUMENTS READY

Flight Planned in Early June, Depending Upon Weather

By The United Press.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Two spectographs, one recently completed and the other carried on last year's disastrous flight, will be dispatched from Rochester soon to Rapid City S. D., for the projected flight next month of the National Geographic society-U. S. army stratosphere balloon.

The old instrument was saved from damage by an individual parachute.

Gustave Fassin, who designed the spectographs, will accompany them to Rapid City and supervise installation.

"FLATTERY" EASILY ACQUIRED IN SLENDERIZING SUMMERY PRINT FROCK PATTERN 2319

By ANNE ADAMS

The balmy May days give a hint of the warm weather just around the corner! And that brings us to the problem every woman of generous proportions must cope with—how to keep cool and fresh looking on those wilting days? Well—Looking Cool goes a long way, and pattern 2319 with its loose, easy cape sleeve, soft treated waistline gives you a mighty cool outlook on life! And very flattering, too, are the graceful folds of the cape that does wonders to equalize proportions. The darts over the bust and at the waistline cleverly contrive to avoid a too-fitted look at the strategical points. Pick a summery printed voile or other sheer.

Pattern 2319 is available in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 takes 3⅞ yards 39 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

AND NOW . . . ANNE ADAMS SUMMER PATTERN BOOK IS READY! Between its covers lie forty pages of Fascinating Fashion Facts. Everyone's problem is solved—the Bride with Trousseau Troubles—Matron with Weighty Problems — much "dated" Junior Debs — Tiny Tots at Play — and Everyone on Vacation! Speculative and Investment Demand Spurs Number Of Issues

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 21—While the stock market was highly selective today, a number of issues pushed into firm teritory under the stimulus of speculative and investment demand.

A buying flurry lifted some of the silver mining shares 1 to 2 or more points, including U. S. Smelting, Cerro De Pasco and American Smelting. Others, up fractionally to a point or so, were Du Pont, Loew's, Briggs Manufacturing, Chrysler, Union Pacific and New York Central. Call money renewed at ¼ of 1 per cent.

Market circles studied the wage range of $19 to $94 monthly for various types of relief work, announced by the President. The fact that the wages were less than those paid by private enterprise was seen as a favorable factor in that it would eliminate competition between government and private employment.

A bracer to sentiment was the record net earnings scored by Philip Morris, $3.75 a share for the fiscal year compared with $1.21 in the preceding year.

The loss of an additional $20,000,000 in gold by France to this country served to remind banking quarters of the continuing flight of French capital and to cause further unrest concerning the condition of the gold bloc.

The French franc opened up .00¼ of a cent at 6.58½ cents. The pound sterling was off ⅛ of a cent at $4.91 3-8. The guilder was up .06 of a cent at 67.69 cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 21.—Wheat and corn prices were slightly lower early today. Background factors were lower cables and favorable Canadian weather reports and the local overbought condition. Opening ⅛-⅜ lower, July 89⅜-⅜, wheat recovered to just under yesterday's closing level, then lost ground. Corn started ⅛-¼ off, July 81⅜-¼, moved higher, and then lost most of the advance under pressure from local operators.

THEY'RE MOVING BACK TO MAMMOTH HOME

Claiming the upkeep was excessive, Clarence Mackay, New York financier, and his beautiful wife, Anna Case, opera singer, in 1932 closed their pretentious home on Harbor Hill, L. I., where a staff of 100 servants was maintained, and moved to a little farmhouse on one corner of the estate. Now they're moving back.

COMING ATTRACTIONS IN THE THEATERS

STATE

A talented cast of stars were assembled to enact the important roles in the Columbia comedy-drama, "The Unwelcome Stranger," starring Jack Holt, which is scheduled to open a three-day run at the State theater Wednesday.

Jack Holt, veteran Columbia star, begins his nineteenth consecutive year of stardom with his portrayal of a superstitious horse-lover in the film. He is cast as the wealthy owner of a stock farm who considers orphans his jinx.

Mona Barrie, beautiful auburn-haired actress, plays opposite Holt. She was featured with him in "I'll Fix It," recent Columbia production, as a charming school-teacher. In her current picture, she is seen as Holt's lovely young wife, the mistress of his rambling estate. Her performance is rated the most dramatic of her career.

For the role of the crippled young orphan who complicates the story by ingrating himself into Holt's affections, Jackie Searl, outstanding boy actor, was chosen.

Another feature, Edward Everett Horton in "$10 Raise" completes the bill.

"SOS Iceberg" with Rod La-Rocque and Leni Riefenstahl and William Bakewell and Emma Dunn in "The Quitter" are on the double feature bill at the American theater two days starting Wednesday.

Cleveland Woman Made Up Mind To Marry Suitor

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, May 21.—Ernest Berko, 45, waited 20 years for Ethel Green, 40, to make up her mind to marry him. She made her decision recently and last night they were married.

"I am only sorry now that I waited all these years," said Mrs. Berko. "I really don't know why I did."

"She hasn't changed a bit since the day I first saw her," said Berko.

HANCOCK BOARD FILES PROGRAM OF NEW SCHOOLS

$1,482,200 Federal Funds For Eight Buildings Asked By Officials

KUMP PLEDGES AID

Only 2,251 of County's 6,512 Children Housed Properly, Report Says

Special To The Review.

NEW CUMBERLAND, W. Va., May 21.—A school building program involving an expenditure of $1,482,200 for eight new buildings in Chester, Newell, Weirton and New Cumberland has been filed with state officials at Charleston by the Hancock county board of education.

The program of the board, according to Gov. H. G. Kump, is the first in the state to be filed at Charleston in connection with the federal government's gigantic $4,880,000,000 relief and building program to be launched soon. Gov. Kump, PWA Director A. L. O'Neal and State Superintendent of Schools W. W. Trent praised the building survey and promised to give the plan their closest attention when the state's allocation of funds is made public at Washington.

The program was carried to Wheeling by a delegation of Hancock county men headed by County School Superintendent H. O. Miller of Pughtown and Assistant Superintendent G. A. Beck of Weirton.

The committee's survey showed the total enrollment in Hancock county to be about 6,512 and of this number only 2,251 are housed in modern buildings meeting Class A standards. A total of 2,455 children are registered on obsolete permanent buildings, 1,289 in one room portables and 537 in rural buildings.

State school authorities declared that they had originally recommended $506,000 for consolidation of 13 rural buildings in the county but the Hancock delegation expressed the preference that funds be used first for the construction of the centralized buildings in the cities.

The Hancock county committee also met with I. K. Wells, superintendent of State Negro schools; H. K. Baer supervisor of the state elementary schools; Dr. L. V. Higgins, of the research department; A. J. Gibson, state superintendent of high schools and Dr. A. E. McClure superintendent of the state department of health, with regard to the sanitary part of the program.

In conference with A. J. Hickman, editor of the West Virginia School Journal, the delegation was advised that the Hancock county survey had attracted statewide attention and that a similar survey had been recommended to every other county board of education in the state to determine the needs in each of the 55 counties. The Hancock county board has arranged to start work on its building program as soon as the necessary approval is given by state officials.

'How To Keep Well'

Cure For Blood Disorder Found In Diet of Liver

Advances in Treatment of Pernicious Anemia Cited By Dr. Copeland

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

RECENTLY THE Nobel prize was awarded the doctors who contributed to the discovery of a cure for "prenicious anemia." For years this was considered a fatal disease. The discovery of the efficacy of a diet of liver in its treatment has enabled the medical profession to keep pernicious anemia within control.

At a meeting of the Greater New York Dietetic association, held not long ago, Doctor William P. Murphy, co-winner of the Nobel prize, declared that anemia can be prevented by proper diet. Unfortunately, too many persons fail to realize the importance of a well-balanced diet.

Unless food is well chosen it does not supply the iron required by the blood. It lacks those minerals so closely related to life. As a result of this lack anemia and other disturbances of the body follow.

Several Forms

There are several forms of anemia, of which pernicious anemia is the most severe. In general it can be said that anemia exists whenever there is a decrease in the number of red blood cells or in the amount of "hemoglobin", the coloring material of the blood.

Anemia results sometimes from a loss of blood, following an accident. It may occur as a complication of some infectious disease, such as tuberculosis or typhoid fever. Early recognition is essential to the welfare of the sufferer.

Certain changes take place within the body when there is a deficiency of the blood or of its vital elements. The victim of anemia is pale and the lips are without color. As a rule, he complains of shortness of breath and swelling of the feet. He tires upon the slightest exertion.

In addition to these classical signs which indicate anemia, it is possible definitely to determine the exact condition of the blood. This is accomplished by means of a "blood test". Actual count is made of the number of red and white blood cells in a certain quantity of blood. Estimate is also made of the amount of hemoglobin present. Failure to recognize anemia in its early stages may lead to serious damage of the body.

In most cases of anemia the treatment is simple and effective. The sufferer should obtain adequte number of hours of rest and relaxation, and an abundance of fresh air and sunlight. The diet should be simple, wholesome and nourishing. It should contain a variety of foods, including milk, fresh fruits, vegetables, cereals, butter, eggs and cream.

In severe cases liver must be added to the diet. This may be given in the form of an extract or as a powder. When the damage is great transfusions of blood are made—that is, the blood of another person is injected into the veins of the sick person. With proper medical care there is every prospect of recovery and a return to good health.

Answers to Health Queries

A. A. Q.—Will cod liver oil tablets give me strength and energy without increasing my height? I am 20 years old, 5 feet 6½ inches tall, thin and catch cold very easily, but do not want to grow any taller.

A.—Yes. The general rules for good health should also be very helpful along these lines. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Bright Feathers

"COME all Puddle Muddlers! Gather around Big Chief Eagle."

Booming-Voice beat the drums and Jelly and Honey Bear, the two cubs Blacky and Jupiter, Mr. and Mrs. Quacko Duck, the rooster, Rip, the dog, Sweet Face, the lamb, and Willy Nilly stood near Big Chief.

The other Indians drew back a little. Christopher Columbus Crow came down from his nest.

"We found spines, quills say me, from old porcupine woods-dweller," continued Big Chief. The Puddle Muddlers looked at each other for they knew that the Indian chief had found the quills that Willy Nilly had pulled out of Rip.

"We have dyed these quills and made them handsome colors, fine, brave colors. One must go to crow—Christopher Columbus—who is now Big Chief Crow. Come! Get painted quill from Big Chief, Christopher!"

Christopher was about to take the quill from Big Chief when he shouted:

"No, no. Big Chief Eagle say NO!"

Christopher drew back a little.

"We test your bravery, but unwise to take quill. Indians keep them for pow-wow if Great Friend. Willy Nilly, say all right."

Willy Nilly nodded.

Now Big Chief cried out:

"Indians have feathers too, beautiful magnificent, have feathers we have painted. They are for honors."

Mrs. Quako Duck smiled a duckish smile. The feathers belonged to the duck family!

TRAVELER FINDS CHARM IN TOUR OVER ENGLAND

Visit To Homeland of Shakespeare Offers Sweet And Simple Beauty

SCENIC COUNTRYSIDE

Historic Castles of Warwick And Kenilworth Impress The Sightseer

By TEMPLE MANNING

IF YOU are going abroad this year there is one pilgrimage that you must make, not only for its importance, but for its sweet and simple beauty.

We mean the visit to Shakespeare land. Make Stratford-on-Avon your mecca, but also visit Stratford, Kenilworth and Warwick along the same roads, past the same cottages as did the dramatist when he lived.

Both the casual tourist and the reverent pilgrim to the shrine of Shakespeare will find charm in this excursion, which takes one through the soft English countryside with its hedges pink with roses and into glowing villages that seem like something from an artist's palette.

This traveler commenced his journey at Leamington Spa, a modern resort that stands on the site of a Saxon village. It must have been visited often by the dramatist in his rambles through the countryside.

The road from Leamington to Kenilworth cuts through pastoral countryside starred with wild flowers which the poet describes so often in his plays. The castle at Kenilworth is all that a castle should be, although the great artificial lake, which was the castle's main defense through the Middle Ages, is long since dry.

Historic Castle

Aside from Shakespeare, Kenilworth castle has other literary associations. Sir Walter Scott staged his novel "Kenilworth" in the castle, investing its walls with the romantic glamor of Amy Robsart, the Earl of Liecester and other characters in the historical novel.

Along the road from Kenilworth

to Warwick we pass Guy's cliff with its many legends. The cliff takes its name from Guy, Earl of Warwick, who is believed to have lived in a cave as a hermit upon his return from the Holy Land. On the cliff are the remains of an ancient oratory said to date from the time of Dubritus. These were incorporated in a chapel built over Guy's cave by that Earl of Warwick who was a friend of King Henry V.

Warwick castle itself is so beautiful, so amazing, that one can hardly believe that it is real. The town, charming though it is, is entirely dominated by the castle. Beauchamp chapel, in Warwick Parish church, houses the richly carved and decorated tombs with which the barons provided themselves to tell all beholders what manner of men slept therein. It is little wonder that these surroundings influenced the lad who was to become the world's greatest poet and dramatist.

PROVING HORSEPOWER

LOGAN, Utah — Demonstration of horsepower was made at the Clarkston livestock show and rodeo. A lightweight draft horse team weighing 2,565 pounds succeeded in pulling 2,600 pounds for a distance of 26 feet 6 inches. This equals a pull of 18½ tons on cement roads or pulling 5½ fourteen-inch plows cutting a six-inch furrow in average soil.

Daily Horoscope

BY GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, May 22

ACCORDING TO the planetary configurations, this should be a rather fortunate day in some respects. However, certain signs of treachery, fraud, or shrewd transactions call for wariness in making contracts or in connection with other papers or documents. In social, domestic or romantic affairs, there is promise of pleasant surprise of a curious or intriguing nature.

Those whose birthday it is may have fair success during the year, but much depends on wise judgment and wariness against fraud or duplicity. The purely personal relations may develop a novel or intriguing state of affairs.

A child born on this day may be gifted with clever talents in business and have interesting phases of a private nature. It might be a fine poet or musician.

Quigley Seeks to Protect Needy Home Owners

Home owners, wishing to take advantage of loans offered by the federal government, were urged today to file their names and addresses at the home loan office in the Central fire station in order that they may be eligible for loans when applications are again received.

Sub-District Manager Sharon Quigley, in charge of the local office having jurisdiction over Columbiana and Carroll counties, said that a bill now before congress would outlaw applications for loans which have not been filed prior to the adoption of the now pending measure. The district office at Columbus, has instructed Mr. Quigley to forward names and address of prospective applicants so that they may not be disqualified in the event that the proposed law goes through in its present form.

About 2,600 applicants for loans were filed from Columbiana and Carroll county before applications were halted last November, Mr. Quigley said today. Of this number about 2,200 have already been acted upon the remaining 400 awaiting investigation. Loans to about 600 applicants have already been completed.

Rhubarb—

RHUBARB thrives best in the northern portion of the country but also may be grown in high altitudes in the south. The soil should be worked 12 to 16 inches deep with rotted manure or some other form of organic matter. Rhubarb crowns are then planted in hills 3 to 4 feet apart and top-dressed with a heavy application of manure either in the spring or fall. Only the leaf stems are good for food. None should be harvested before the second year and only a few before the third. Seed stalks should be removed as soon as they form.

FIRST DIVISION NINES IN CITY LOOP BEATEN IN SOFTBALL BATTLES

Golden Star Beaten by Copey Nine as Foutts Tavern Stops Watson's

First division teams in the City softball league had a tough time of it last night with the cellar nines showing no respect for the high and mighty.

For the first time in four starts the Copenhaver Grocers managed to win a contest, shutting out the Golden Star Dairy 5-0 while Foutts Taverns were defeating Watson's Hardware 10-8 in a slugging battle.

Swift pitched four-hit ball for the Copey nine and went to the plate and drove out two hits, one of them good for an extra base. Mosser the catcher scored two runs with Laneve, Bailey and Morris each getting one. Bailey hit safely four times.

The Golden Stars hits were well scattered with Dailey, Beech, Halpate and Jarrett accounting for one each. The Dairy team dropped out of a tie for second place.

Although outhit 15 to 11, the Taverns made good use of their blows to defeat Watson's Hardwares. Even a double by Weaver and a triple by Witherow could not stave off defeat for them.

The Taverns got four runs in the third, two in the sixth, three in the seventh and another in the last inning. Watsons opened the game with a run in the first, another in the sixth and five in the seventh. A rally in the final frame ended after one run had been scored.

SPORT SLANTS by Pap

"Old Man River" is drilling another crew at Syracuse university. Ever since 1903 Jim Ten Eyck has been taking Orange crews down to race on the Hudson.

Close onto 80 years ago he began pulling an oar on that river himself. He was literally born with an oar in his hand. His father and grandfather before him were oarsmen—and that goes back to the American revolution when David Ten Eyck was a ferryman on the Hudson.

The old ferryman of revolutionary days had several sons, one of them was the Syracuse coach's father, James B. Ten Eyck, who died in 1917 at 92.

Coach Jim Ten Eyck's father had a twin brother, and they made up a pair of oarsmen whose deeds are well remembered. They lived at Cauldwell's Landing, the first steamboat landing north of New York City, and ferried people across to Peekskill.

Sturdy Stock, Eh?

Races in those days were started at Newburgh, 20 miles from Cauldwell's Landing and the twin brothers were entered in every race. They thought nothing of rowing 20 miles from their home to Newburgh, rowing the four mile course in the race—best two out of three heats—and, after generally winning, rowing the 20 miles back home.

Coach Jim Ten Eyck was born October 16, 1851, at Tomkins Cove, near Stony Point, where his grandfather had the ferry.

He learned to pull an oar almost as soon as he took his first steps. Whenever he had to go anywhere up or down the river, he always rowed—never walked.

He ran away from school to row and win his first race. Then followed a series of championships as an amateur and later as a professional.

Ten Eyck was a member of a championship four-oared crew which invaded England in search of new worlds to conquer. With a group of famous oarsmen he toured this country before taking up the task of coaching crews and scullers. He developed oarsmen at Duluth, Ottawa, Boston, Washington and the Naval Academy.

Son A Sculling Ace

His son Ned was rated by experts as the "greatest boy sculler of all time" when he won the Diamond Sculls trophy at 17.

Ten Eyck has produced some might fine crews at Syracuse. His junior varsity won at Poughkeepsie last year and his freshmen crew finished second.

Just to show that his 83 years do not weigh too heavily on him the veteran coach adhered to his annual custom and took his place in the coxswain's seat in the varsity shell when the crews took to the water for the first time early this spring.

In its first race of the current season the Syracuse crew trimmed Cornell, Harvard and M. I. T. at a mile and three-quarters, and showed enough to rate serious consideration for Poughkeepsie honors.

SPORTS EAST LIVERPOOL REVIEW

YAROSZ RETURNS FROM HOSPITAL

Will Rest Three Weeks and Then Start Training For Next Fight

Teddy Yarosz, middleweight boxing champion who recently underwent an operation at Mayo Brothers in Rochester, Minn., has returned to Monaca, Pa., for a rest before beginning training for the defense of his title.

Ray Foutts, of East Liverpool, manager of the champion, said Yarosz apparently is in perfect condition and is able to walk around without the aid of a cane.

The operation was performed to overcome injuries to Yarosz' knee suffered in a bout with Babe Risko last New Year's day. Since that time the champion has been unable to appear in a match.

Foutts is confident that Yarosz will be as good as ever when he comes back. The doctors have ordered three weeks of rest before the champion can start training. After that, he will be given two warmup bouts.

On July 8, if present plans go through, Yarosz will defend his title in Cleveland against Paul Pirrone. Negotiations are still going ahead for the fight although the promoters and Foutts are unable to get together on the champion's share of the purse. The champion is asking $35,000 and the promoters, Sportsmen's Enterprises, Inc., of Pittsburgh, have offered $10,000 less.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

Special To The Review.

PHILADELPHIA—Tommy Loughran, 189, Philadelphia, outpointed Al Ettore, 188, Philadelphia, (10); Eddie Hogan, 220, Waterbury, Conn., stopped Larry Johnson, 191, Chicago, (5); Leroy Haynes, 189, Los Angeles, knocked out Tony Starr, 187, Newark, N. J., (1).

PITTSBURGH— Vince Dundee, 163, Newark, N. J., outpointed Anson Green, 161, Pittsburgh, (10); Mike Baroto, 141, New Kensington, Pa., stopped Chuck Woods, 140, Detroit, (4).

MINNEAPOLIS — Young Jack Gibbons, 163, St. Paul, stopped Kid Leonard, 163, East Moline, Ill., (2); Hank Hankinson, 212, Akron, O., knocked out Red Barry, 195, Washington, D. C., (5); Lee Salvoldi, 179, St. Paul, knocked out Billy Kemp, 168, St. Paul, (2).

BALTIMORE — Harry Jeffra, 124, Baltimore, knocked out Milt Jacobs, 125, Philadelphia, (1).

MIAMI — Frankie Blair, 148, Camden, outpointed Joe Dundee, 157½, Beaumont, Tex., (10).

NEWARK, N. J.—Joey Costa, 134¾, Jersey City, outpointed Joey Greb, 141½, Herkimer, N. Y., (8).

Barney Ross, who will fight Jimmy McLarnin for the welterweight title this May 28, won that title from Jimmy exactly a year ago, and he also became a Golden Gloves champion on May 28 (1933).

DUNDEE BEATS GREEN IN COMEBACK STEP

Wins Decision After Taking Early Punishment

By The United Press.

PITTSBURGH, May 21.—Vince Dundee has taken another hurdle in the comeback struggle he hopes will regain the middleweight crown he lost last summer to Teddy Yarosz.

Although Vince took some punishment in the early rounds, he won a 10-round decision last night from Anson Green, the Homestead Negro battering ram, by the simple process of wearing his opponent down. Dundee weighed 163 and Green 161.

AMATEUR STARS OUT OF TOURNEY

Little's Formidable Rivals Beaten; American Shows Poor Form in Win

By The Associated Press.

ST. ANNE'S-ON-THE-SEA, Eng., May 21.—The elimination of such formidable rivals as Jock McLean, Hector Thompson and Ross Somerville had smoothed out Lawson Little's path toward a second successive British amateur golf championship, but the question today was whether the big Californian's own game was in such working order as to permit him to take advantage of the situation.

Little escaped the fate of the two best of Scotland aces, McLean and Thompson, and Canada's No. 1 star, Somerville, in the opening round yesterday but with absolutely nothing to spare. Matched against an "unknown," T. H. Parker, the defending champion was "all out" to win, one up, after one of the poorest rounds of his career.

He needed to have all his shots in much better working order if he was to get past Eric Martin Smith, winner of the championship in 1931, in today's second round.

The first day's play also saw American victories hung up by John Forsman of New York, Dan Topping of Greenwich, Conn., Robert Knowles Jr., of Brookline, Mass., and Capt. A. Webster-Bullock of Monterey Park, Calif. The only American reverses came with the withdrawal of Robert Barbour of Patterson, N. J., and the defeat of Douglas Grant, former Californian who has lived in England for many years.

Forsman was matched against I. Lyle of the Royal St. George's club; Knowles against M. Parkinson of the home club, and Webster-Bullock against Bruce Thompson of Liverpool.

Of the Americans who did not play yesterday, Tommy Tailer of Piping Rock, N. Y., drew Andrew Jamieson Jr., a first-class shot maker from Glasgow and former Scottish champion, as his first opponent and R. A. Stranahan of Toledo, O., was booked against D. Coats of Fair Haven.

SULLIVAN TO BAER

A Pictorial History of the Heavyweights

VII. Jeffries vs. Corbett—1903

Jim Jeffries, the grizzly bear of the ring, battered the first of the scientific marvels, Gentleman Jim Corbett, into one-sided defeat when he fought him the second time—at the Yosemite A. C. in San Francisco, August 24, 1903.

Jeffries (at left in the photo) knocked Corbett out in 10 rounds with a terrific left to the stomach, defending the title he had won from Fitzsimmons in 1889 at Coney Island, where no pictures of the fight were taken for fear that the flash lamps would set the place on fire.

Following the charging offensive he had found effective in the late rounds at Coney Island, Jeffries came up to the 10th unmarked while Corbett was almost helpless. As the boilermaker smashed his final left into Corbett's body Tommy Ryan, chief second for the old champion, jumped into the ring as Referee Eddie Graney started counting. Technically the match ended with Corbett automatically disqualified, but he was completely knocked out by the final blow and never could have risen before 10.

PATCHED UP BUC INFIELD FAILS TO HINDER CLIMB

Pirates Pass .500 Mark for First Time Since Opening of Season

By The Associated Press.

Despite a patched up infield consisting principally of a lot of players named Floyd, the Pittsburgh Pirates have driven themselves above the .500 mark in the standings for the first time since the opening day of the National league season.

With Floyd Herman at first base in place of Gus Suhr, Floyd Young subbing at second for Harry Lavagetto and Floyd Vaughan at short as usual, the battling Corsairs rattled Forbes field fences with a home run, five triples, two doubles and six singles yesterday and walloped the league leading New York Giants 11-4.

Carl Hubbell started for the Giants but retired in considerable disorder after four innings during which the Pirates thumped him for five runs and six hits.

Red Lucas, making his first start of the campaign, blanked the Giants with three hits for eight innings. Woody Jensen led the Pirate attack with a home run and two singles while Young kicked in with a pair of triples.

Suhr, suffering from a split finger, went to right field in the ninth and thus kept his string of consecutive games played intact. He has appeared in 506 in succession.

The victory left the Pirates in fifth place a half game behind the St. Louis Cardinals and only four games out of first place. The Giants' lead over Brooklyn was shaved to a game and a half. In the only other National league game, Bill Lee held the Boston Braves to six hits and Chicago's third place Cubs won, 5-0 to draw to within a half game of the Dodgers.

The Chicago White Sox's 7-2 beating from the New York Yankees, coupled with Cleveland's 4-1 conquest of the Boston Red Sox, cut the White Sox' lead over the Indians to a game and a half in the American legaue.

Carl Fischer, making his first start for Chicago was reached for 10 hits by the Yankees, including a home run by Tony Lazzeri and a double and triple by Jesse Hill. Rick Ferrell's home run was all that saved the Red Sox from a shut out by Cleveland, as Oral Hildebrand kept eight other hits well spaced.

The champion Detroit Tigers mowed down Philadelphia's Athletics, 8-6 in 10 innings and now trail fourth place Boston by only one percentage point. Washington, another game to the rear, trounced the St. Louis Browns, 8-2, as Russ Van Atta, former Yankee, failed in his debut for the Browns.

FLORISTS LOSE TO PURITY TEAM

Sixth Inning Drive Results In Victory; G. Mackey Smashes Homer

A four-run drive in the sixth inning brought victory for the Purity Milks over the Riverview Greenhouses last night in the City softball league. The score was 4-2.

The Milks did all the heavy hitting of the contest with H. Mackey's homer being one of the features. McMasters and B. Werk each got doubles.

After going scoreless until the eighth inning, Massey and Clendenning scored and blocked the prospects of a shutout for Hobbs, who allowed six hits. Massey, hurling for the losers, was touched for seven hits. In turning in the victory, Hobbs continued to maintain his jinx over the florists.

Fullerton's shoestring catch of Marshall's drive in the eighth was the fielding feature of the game.

The lineups:

TOMMY ARMOUR SET TO SEEK TITLE AGAIN

Qualifies for National Open In Chicago District

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 21.—Tommy Armour is all set to make a try for another National Open golf championship on the course where he won his first and only one.

Armour did not lead the Chicago district's belated qualifying round at his home course, the Medinah country club, but he gained a place among the fourteen who will go to Oakmont, Pa., June 6-8 for the big show. Armour won his only open title at Oakmont in 1927, beating out Harry Cooper in a play-off after they had tied at 301 for the regulation 72 holes.

J. P. (Sonny) Rouse, Chicago professional, who had a hole in one, and Denny Shute, British Open champion, in 1933, led the qualifiers with 148s.

The other qualifiers were: Alex Stupple and Frank Walsh, Chicago, 150; Al Anderegger, Chicago amateur, and Abe Espinosa, Chicago, 152; Al Huske, Elgin, Ill., and Bob MacDonald, Chicago, 154; Dick Metz, Chicago; F. M. Foland, Gary, Ind., amateur, and Eddie Williams, Chicago, 155, and George M. Smith, Chicago, 156.

COUNTY LEAGUE LEADERS BATTLE FOR TOP BERTH

Placentia To Take on Homer Laughlins and Lisbon This Week

STANDINGS

Team.	W.	L.	Pct.
East Liverpool	2	0	1000
Lisbon	2	0	1000
Placentia	2	0	1000
Salineville	1	1	500
Sebring	1	1	500
East Palestine	0	2	000
Kensington	0	2	000
Salem	0	2	000

Games scheduled during the next week in the Columbiana county hardball league will thin out the ranks of the teams fighting to stay in first place.

With three teams having finished the first week of the schedule undefeated, games scheduled Wednesday and Sunday find them clashing with each other.

Wednesday night at Newell, the Lake Placentia club will meet the Homer Laughlin China team in a contest that will eliminate one or the other from the top flight. Lisbon, the other first place team, will meet Kensington on the former's home lot. The game should not be much more than a breather for Lisbon unless Kensington is able to hit its stride. East Palestin at Sebring and Salineville at Salem are the other contests scheduled for Wednesday.

Sunday will find Lisbon playing at Lake Placentia. If Placentia wins from Liverpool and Lisbon it will be in first place. However, the lake team is going to have tough sledding in winning both games but will have the power to shake up the league standings.

East Liverpool's Sunday battle will be at Salem, with East Palestine playing at Salineville and Sebring at Kensington.

DOGS KILL 113 SHEEP

LISBON, O., May 21—Dogs in Columbiana county so far this year have killed 113 and injured 43 sheep and also killed one hog. This record was disclosed today in sheep claims filed with County Auditor John H. Irwin, the total loss being $731. The heaviest loss was on the farm of Homer Crouse, when 26 sheep were killed and 12 injured. Elmer Riehl reported 23 sheep killed and one injured, while the hog was killed on the farm of H. B. Givens.

Your Refrigerator Investment

Know these facts Before you buy . . .

1. LOW OPERATING COST—The Electrolux costs less than 3c a day to operate. No other refrigerator is so economical.
2. PERMANENT SILENCE—The Electrolux has no mechanism to wear and create noise. A tiny gas flame—which is absolutely noiseless—operates the refrigerator.
3. NO MOVING PARTS—Nothing moves in the Electrolux but the hinges on the door. Therefore the Electrolux is free from pulleys, fans, motors, pumps, etc., that in time cause costly repairs.
4. SAVES ENOUGH TO PAY FOR ITSELF—Savings in food—no spoilage—and low operating cost soon pay for the Electrolux.
5. LONG LIFE—There is nothing in the Electrolux to wear out. It will serve you as well in years to come as it does when it is new.

THERE IS NO OTHER REFRIGERATOR LIKE ELECTROLUX!

ENEMY'S KISS

by Evelyn M. Winch

SYNOPSIS: Alison Rede, stirred toward Guy Westurn by gratitude and something stronger, is horrified to see that the calculating Daphne Sumers, her father's second wife-to-be, is trying to make Mr. Rede suspicious of Guy. Whereas all the young man has done to date has been to save Alison from a nasty situation which was of Daphne's making, and behave like the perfect gentleman throughout.

CHAPTER 20

Man Bemused

"Guy was looking at the house, father," said Alison. "He'd come down to see it and wanted to look at it again."

She frowned at her father's slightly sceptical face and tapped impatiently with her foot. "Oh, I know it sounds queer, his staying and everything, but it wasn't. If you'd been there you'd have done just the same!"

Robert frowned. "I don't know that I'm particularly pleased about his staying there with you all night," he began, but the girl cut in fiercely.

"You wouldn't have minded—not one bit—until she started interfering!"

"Alison!"

"I know, father! But there are limits! Just because she doesn't like me's no reason why she should barge into my affairs! It's no business of hers. I'm grown up now and surely I can make friends if I like without asking her?"

Robert put out a hand and drew his daughter towards him. "Now, my dear, listen."

"I don't want to listen! I think it's horrible! Just because a man helps me when I'm in a jam, she has to think—to make you think—oh!"

Alison broke down; the strain of days of anxiety, of her night's vigil in the old house and today's distress, all gathered into that one cloud-burst of tears. Because she seldom cried, because he had never seen her so upset, Robert was almost shocked. He gathered her into his arms, soothing her with pet names and kisses until her last slow sobs subsided.

"I'm sorry," she wrenched herself free, dried her face.

"There. You're overtired, that's all." Like all men, Robert Rede attributed any feminine emotion to physical causes. "But you mustn't think, my pet, that Daphne doesn't like you. She's only too anxious to be friends, Alison, and was a little hurt because you didn't seem to like her.

"She means so much to me, I can't bear to think that you and she won't get on. Poor little thing, she had such an awful time—fancy, she was married at fifteen to a perfect brute years older than she was who treated her most abominably.

"Lots of women would have left him, but Daphne stuck to him, even when he got ill, and nursed him herself through the two years that he was ill. And then, when he died, she found that he'd gambled everything he'd got away and left her absolutely penniless! I tell you, when I think of him, I see red! If only I can give her a little happiness!"

Suddenly, impulsively, Alison turned and kissed him.

"I'm sorry, dear!" That was true; she was sorry for her outburst. "I won't again. I expect we'll get on splendidly when we know each other. It was piggy of me to be upset . . . only, well, I love you so and I felt—"

"Jealous. Of course. It's natural. Children do." Robert was not conscious of quoting. "But you needn't be. I want you both; and she wants both of us, particularly you. By the way, I've got something for you—I meant at first to give you a check for fifty pounds and then I thought you'd rather have this."

He felt in his pocket, drew out a jewel case. Alison took it. Inside, on a dark blue velvet lining, lay a turquoise and diamond pendant. A pretty little pendant.

"I got Daphne to choose it for you while we were in Nice. I thought she could pick one better than I could, she's got such good taste. It's a 'welcome home' present."

"It's just lovely! Thank you so much, darling. Thank her too for me." Not for worlds at that moment would Alison have said aloud what was in her heart—that she would rather have had a present at half the price chosen by her father himself.

She put it round her neck, fastening the tiny platinum chain and looked at herself in the glass. "It's just perfect, isn't it?"

It was worth any lie, she told herself, to see him smile like that again. If turquoises do not look their best with red, well, what matter?

Only when she went up to bed, taking off the pendant, she noticed something which made her stoop, peer closely at the bright platinum setting of the jewel.

The ring by which it hung upon the chain was slightly thinner at the top, worn into a tiny groove! Alison's lips twisted a trifle as she stared down at the jewel.

Second hand! At best not worth more than thirty pounds, it was not even new! She began to visualize how Daphne Sumers could afford her hairdresser and that chic Paris dress!

Well, it was the thought, after all, which counted; her father's thought.

She put the jewel away tenderly, thinking of him; suddenly, with a pang of dismay, Alison remembered she had asked Guy to lunch. He would arrive tomorrow, expecting to lunch with her father. How could she explain to him that the invitation was off?

Tomorrow Daphne was to lunch, which made it all the more awkward! Alison knew that she could not face a meal with Daphne and Guy feeling all the time that her father objected and that Guy was suspect. She knew that she would give herself away, be shy and be miserable with the thought present always that those two were looking at her, trying to detect signs that she had "lost her heart" or that Guy was a crook!

Could she get hold of him and put him off? If she did, would he guess what had happened, never come again? He was not the kind of person who would thrust himself into a house where he was not wanted! But that would be unbearable!

She had a sense of chilly desolation as she stood there, such a sense of loss that she was forced to face the truth.

She wanted more than anything on earth to see him again!

What should she do? She was still wondering next day.

Daphne appeared at half past twelve, in a taxi with half a dozen large parcels and, while Perter settled with the driver, she opened the parcels in the library and showed the contents to Alison. Huge flat books of wallpapers and a mass of furnishing fabrics.

"I wondered if you'd help me, darling, to choose my new colorings for the rooms upstairs?" She had a gushing way of asking. "I feel sure you've got a wonderful color sense!"

Alison looked up startled from the letter she was writing.

"The rooms upstairs? But I thought father was giving up this house?"

"He did think of it," agreed Daphne airily, "but we've talked it over and we feel that'd be a pity. After all, we must have a house in London, too, while you are growing up. It's not as if he couldn't afford it, is it?" The swift glance she shot at the girl dropped away unsatisfied for Alison knew nothing of her father's affairs.

"Which rooms are you going to do up?" she asked.

"Our bedroom and the little sitting room Im taking for my boudoir." Mrs. Sumers spread out a length of patterned silk. "Look, isn't this superb?"

"Rather expensive, isn't it?" Alison ventured.

"Oh, with furnishing stuffs it pays to get the best," said Mrs. Sumers lightly. "Let's go upstairs shall we? Or would you rather not?"

"No, no! I'd love to," Alison rose hastily, anxious to make amends for her explosion last night.

Watching Daphne, more than chic in a brand-new navy blue coat trimmed liberally with mink, a navy dress just touched with scarlet and a Reboux hat, drifting round the rooms which had once been her own mother's, laying armfuls of exotic fabrics on the exquisite embroideries worked by the dead woman, was surely punishment enough!

"I think zebra'd look marvellous here—with black lacquer and red cushions—don't you think so? Only then I'd just have to have glass over the fire—but perhaps you'd like that portrait of your mother in your bedroom?"

"Father thought he'd like that picture moved to the library, or to his dressing room," put in Alison. "He mentioned it last night at dinner."

Tomorrow, Alison runs away with Guy.

The Sunlit Road

BY TOM T. JONES

An invitation to attend a picnic at Rock Springs park at Chester long before East Liverpool was connected with the West Virginia shore by the suspension bridge, was found among the personal effects of John Wesley Bulger, formerly of East Liverpool who died in Akron in 1917.

The picnic was given by an organization known as the "Trundle Beds," and contained the following inscription: "You are respectfully requested to attend the annual basket picnic at Rock Springs Park, W. Va., on July 4, 1881. Meet at the wharfboat at 9 a. m. sharp. Leave orders at music store where to call for baskets."

To the invitation were the names of a committee as follows: T. C. Smith, F. W. Myers, C. F. Thompson, A. S. Wallace, George Thomas, George Murphy, C. D. Blackmore and L. M. Thomas. This event was held two days after President James A. Garfield was fatally shot by Charles J. Guitau in Washington as the executive was departing for New England to spend Independence day. The "music store" mentioned in the invitation doubtless was that conducted by the late Will L. Thompson then located in lower Broadway.

In those days of the early eighties the only means of crossing the river to the South Side as Chester was principally known was by ferry boat. Arrangements for the collection of the baskets by means of horse-drawn vehicles had probably been made by the committee.

Another interesting souvenir among the effects of Mr. Bulger now held by his son, Blaine Bulger of St. George street, was the "Programme for the East Liverpool Social club" on Wednesday, Nov. 8, 1878. Among the dance numbers listed on the card was "Carnival de Liverpoole," "Kitty Katta Kyno," "Bohemian Girl" and others. The reception committee included William H. Brunt, Brad M. Louthan finance, Charles F. Thompson and George Thomas; floor managers, Thomas C. Smith, Herbert Bloor and Edward M. Pearson.

Another invitation is that for the annual excursion and basket picnic of East Liverpool Lodge No. 379, I. O. O. F. at Rock Point, Pa., on Friday, Aug. 10, 1888. The railroad fare was $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. It was added that music would be furnished by Haines Military band and Elwell's Uniformed Quadrilla band. The committee on arrangements were George W. Croxall, Will A. Rhodes, George C. Murphy, A. J. Paull, W. A. Hill, J. R Warner, James A. Calhoun, Charles A Bick, Samuel Pollock and F. S. Crowl. Tickets for the affair were on sale at Werners, Ferguson & Hill, Erlangers, Fleming and McKinney." Then it was added: "Present this invitation when purchasing tickets."

In the course of 24 hours more than 10,000,000 persons ride in the elevators of Manhattan.
